Name lancago, our neighbor of the Free Dem ware took as to task, because our list of approprations made by the Legislatore showed two of $15 to S. M. Booth for newspapers. We stated that our list was drawn by a careful hand from the titles of acts deposited in the Secretary of State's office at Madison; to which the following

The Sentiael knows for what we were paid on $35, but it don't know what the other $35 account was for. We guess it don't. Its "careful hand" who farmshed the news most have been തലാകൾ മാറിഴ careful. We wrote to Madison to make enquiry as to this matter, in order to ascertain the real facts in the case and received on Thursday evening from the Secretary of State's office, certified copies of two latte, in precisely the same language, to wit There is hereby appropriated to S. M. Booth out of any money to the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of thirty five dollars, it being to thank the combes of the Daily Free Democrat, turnished by him to the order of the mombers of

The Vicinters of the Constitution.

The Lewisha Telegraph of Thursday last cor the following paragraph, in reference to cor then like ctive appointments, recently made by LUC. BARROW:

14 > Varies and Dr. Bugh, are two of the Conthe state and Dr. Buguare two it to locate the Loualte A-ylum. Another is yet to be appointed. G. H. M'Lean is secretary of the Commission. Vittum and M'Lean were members of the late Secretary and Bugh, Secretary of that body. We believe there has been no appointment of any justify yet made by the Governor, except from the content of the Loualthree. members of the Legislature.

To the above list must be added the names Species Hoen, appointed Emigrant Agent a New York (Guy, Banerow having veloed the bi which sholished that office, is order to keep the pasce for the Speaker) and Senator HUNTED appeared Private Secretary to the Governor. These appointments—the consideration for party or personal services-are not only objections is themselves, corrupting in their tendency and at war with public policy and the public good but they involve an onen, wilful, flagrant and semedalises violation of the State Constitution That instrument, with the design of guarding against the dangerous and demoralizing effects of partietly each almoss of Executive authority and official patronage, contains the following positive and emphatic prohibition :

"No MESSER OF THE LEGISLATURE SHALL, dur ing the term for which he was elected, be apwhich shalt have been created, or the emoluments of which shalf have been increased, during the term for which he was elected."

In the cases of Sepators Virring and McLeanthe effices to which they have been appointed by our Constitution-defying Governor, were "created " during the term for which they were electad In the case of Senator HUNTER, the office was created and the emoluments increased during his term. To the $600 heretofore allowed the Governor for "Clerk hire," the Legislature, at its late Session, added $460 and a title-Senator Histor, who helped to create the office and to increase the emoluments, becoming the recipient of Wine is to be said-what can be said-in ex case, or pulliation of this deliberate, wanton, paljustile infraction of the Pundamental Law of the State It cannot have been done in ignorance, for even William A. Banstow must be presumed to have read the Constitution which he has swort to support. It must then have been done with malice prepare and aforethoughts; in the full have ledge that the People of Wisconsin, speaking time and by their Constitution, had forbidden such approximents; and with the deliberate purpase to set both the will of the People and the enter and spirit of that Constitution at open deheter ' And this is done by the Governor of the State, switth to support the Constitution, to admichier the Law, and faithfully to guard the rightsand overests of the People! How shall the Law had respect and obelience within the limits of Waxanish when our Law-makers thus set the example of open and wilful disobelience? With what fee can the Ministers of Justice arraign some poor and ignorant criminal, driven by hunger, poverty, despair, or drink, to the con of critice, when the Chief Officer of the Law the lead of the State Government, the man of all others whose sworn and special duty it is to "take care that the laws be faithfully executed." -wien he knowingly, wickedly and corruptly. disoleys the Law and tramples upon the Consti-

Our Charge to Ecuador.

When we heard that Brig, Gen'l Philo White f Racine Co. Wis., was appointed Charge des Affaires at Quito, we were certain that, as soon as advices could come down from that city, away up among the clouds in the Andes, our government would hear from their distinguished fellow-citizen' So it has turned out; copies of the diplomatic orrespondence Letween him and Don. Mancos Espinel, the Minister of foreign relations at Ecualor, having at hearth reached this country.

Gen'l White's ideas seem to have arisen step by step with his ascent of the Andes, until, on eaching Quito, he hastened to free his mind by a long letter to the haughty Don, living there among the "perpetually enow capped mountains." He congratulates himself that destiny has found most of those of the temperate as well as of the torrid zones, and in the delicious salubity of its climate, my anticipations have been more than climate, my anticipations have been more than a realized.

Philosophers and speculative theorists of all countries have dwelt with deep and curious interest upon the descriptions by travelers of the Great Peak of Chimborazo, the distinguished physical feature of Ecuador. Perpetualty snow-capped at the center of the terrid zone, it peers up into ethereal space beyond all other material objects. And among the wonders and phenomena with which Goo's Foort-stront is so mysteriously garnished, this is unique of its kind, and is indeed a magnificent specimen of Heaven's omupotent power. It amorded one of the earliest themes that awakened the romance of my youthful mind, and for three hundred years has exited the marvel as well of the learned as of the illiterate vel as well of the learned as of the illiterate ughout the civilized world.

This is but a brief extract; we regret that our solumns are not capacious enough for the whole. Don. Mancos was staggered at first-took time to consider-walked out upon the roof of the old palace of the Incas-gathered inspiration from Chimborazo and the rest of the tall mountains with long names,-and with recovered energy, sent back to the Brigadier a Roland for his Oliver, from which we extract the following:

ver, from which we extract the following:

"I esteem myself highly honored in having been commissioned to make known the views and purposes of my govornment to the warthy representative of the model nation, who has contributed a large portion of his life to the diffusion of republican principles through the medium of a free press—and who, with a matured judgement, a large experience, and an expansive philamthropy, is now manifesting a lively interest in the progress and aggrandizement of this country, to which he has been attracted by the salubity of its climate and the variety of its productions, as well as by its historic recollections of its primitive government and the productions elevation of its perpetually snow-capped mountains." s perpetually snow-capped mountains."

We shall look with interest for further new from the prodigions elevation to which Gen'l White has uscended. Perhaps the comet brings lespatches, and has lost its way; who knows? We are inclined to think that the Don has the Brigadier thus far, but as we know the capability of the latter, we back him still. And our sister states may as well take notice that, having alrealy defied coropetition in poetry, while the fame of Elbert Herring Smith survives, Wisconsin now challenges the array of prosewriters, and rests her claim to the laurel upon the Charge to Ecuador, prodigiously elevated among the snow capped ranges of the Andes. Long may he wave !

SPORTSMEN, ATTENTION !- Mr. TARTAR, of Coss ville, Grant County, gives notice through the columns of the Herald, that "his wheat is being caten up by deer, inhabiting the dense oak forest near by," and that he would be glad to have his sporting friends " visit his farm, and bring their rifles along." If this invitation be accepted the deer will probably find, on their next visit to Mr. T.'s farm, that they have "caught a Tartar."

THE CHILD MURDER AT WAUKESHA .- We are adebted to a correspondent at Wankesha for an account of the inquest upon the body of the child found in the river at that place a day or two since. As it has been stated that two females were arrested on suspicion, we correct the statement, on our correspondent's authority, by saying that no arrests were made, and nothing elicited to justify anything beyond the verdiet of the Coroner's jury, to wit, "that the infant came to its person or persons unknown."

FRIDAY MORNING, April 14, 1854.

In your report of the proceedings of the Convention, yesterday at Young's Hall, you put me in the ridiculous position of having "claimed the floor" to make a speech. There is no excuse for this; your reporter was present and knows the circumstances. I had been called upon several times in the course of the afternoon, but had not noticed the call because I was there merely as an observer and did not wish to participate in the proceedings of the meeting. When the meeting was about over, I was again called for very gonerally, and most of those camposing the body of the Convention turned their faces around towards me. It was evidently done in a friendly manner and I thought it proper to respond. I did so in about the following language:

I have heard my name called several times, I believe, and now arise to respond; and I do so because in this city of my long residence I deam it was the total constant of the conversation of the confident that the missty's government could be as little disposed as his Imperial Majesty to tolerate the presence of the French at Constantinople; and being desirations, the constantinople; and being desiration and in the course of the afternoon, but had not remember a view, I added, "But your material may all these castering was about over, I was again called for very gonerally, and most of those camposing the body of the Convention turned their faces around towards me. It was evidently done in a friendly manner and I thought it proper to respond. I did so in about the following language:

I have heard my name called several times, I believe, and now arise to respond; and I do so because in this city of my long residence I deam it was the process of the face of the firm and the manner and thought it proper to respond. I did so in about the following language:

because in this city of my long residence I deem it polite at least to recognize by my appearance a riendly call made upon me by my fellow citizens Not understanding very clearly the practical object of this convention I cannot speak to any prese point before it. I came here in the exercise of that liberty of the American Citizen, which has been here so nobly vindicated. I believe I have inducted myself with propriety, and I am sure I have paid my share of the expenses. I will leave you with the expression of a sentiment in which I know you will all unite. My heart is ever alive to the cause of human liberty; and not less so to the laws and constitution of our comnon country where liberty has achieved its no-J. E, ARNOLD.

(We have only to add to Mr. Arnold's note, hat his intimation of a design, on the part of our Reporter, to put him in a " ridiculous position," sentirely unfounded. There was no such thought, r purpose. The intent of the Report and the Reporter was to give a brief abstract of the proceedngs and remarks-and his amongst the rest,-

[Secret and Confidential—Extract.]

St. Petersburg, Feb. 22, 1853.

I had the honor of whiting yesterday upon the Emperor, and of holding with his Majesty one of he most interesting conversations in which I

Emperor, and of holding with his Majesty one of the most interesting conversations in which I ever found myself engaged. My only regret is my inability to report in full detail a dialogue which lasted an hour, and 12 minutes.

The Emperor began by desiring me to read to him aloud your Lordship, secret and confidential despatch of the 9th inst, saying that he should ston me accessionally either to make an electronic constitution of the second of the state of the second of th top me occasionally, either to make an observa-ion, or to call upon me for the translation of a passage.

I proceeded to read, and was stopped at the

I proceeded to read, and was stopped at the sentence beginning. "In these circumstances it would hardly be consistent with the friendly feelings"—when the Emperor observed, that Her Majesty's government did not appear to be aware that his chief object was to obtain from Her Majesty's government some declaration, or eyen opinion, of what ought not to be permitted in the event of the sudden dowfall of Turkoy. I said, "Perhaps your Majesty would be good enough to explain your own ideas upon this negative policy." This His Majesty for some time declared doing; be ended, however, by saying, "Well, there are several things which I never will tolerate it will begin by ourselves. I will not tolerate the permanent occupation of Constantinople by the Hussiane: having said this, I will say that it never shall be held by the English, or French, or any other great nation.—Again, I never will permit an attempt at the reconstruction of a Byzantine empire, of such an extension of Greece as would render her a powerful state; still less will I permit the breaking up of Turkey into little republics, asylume for the Kossuths and Mazzinis, and other revolutionists of Europe, rather than submit to any of these arrangements I would go to war, and as long as I have a man and a masket left would carry it on. "These," the Emperorsaid, "are at once some ideas; now give me some in reture."

or said, "are at once come ideas; now give me some in return."

I remarked upon the assurance which would be found respecting the English resolution of never attempting to possess Constantinople, and upon the disinclination of Her Majesty's government to enter into eventual arrangements, but upon being still pressed by his Impenial Majesty, I said, "Well, sir, the idea may not suit your Majesty, may not suit Her Majesty's government, but what is good between uan and man is often a good system, between one state and acother; how would it be if, the event of any catastrophe occurring in Turkey, Russia and England were to declare that no power should be allowed to take possession of its provinces: that the property should remain, as it were under seals, until amicable arrangements could be made as to its adjadication?"

"I will not say," the Emperor observed, "that such a course would be impossible, but, at least, it would be very difficult; there are no elements of provincial or communal government in Turkey; you would have Turks attacking Christians, Christians falling upon Turks, Christians of different sects quarreling with each other; in short, chose and anarchy."

"Sir," I then observed, "if your Majesty will allow me to speak plairly, I would say that the great difference between us is this—that you continue to dwell upon the fall of Turkey, and the arrangements requisite before and after the fall; and that we, on the contrary, look to Turkey remaining where she is, and to the precautions which are necessary for preventing her condition from becoming worse." "Ah P raplied the Emperor, "that is what the Chancellor is perpensity telling me; but the catastropho will cocurs some day, and will take us all unawarce."

His Imperial Majesty spoke of France. "God forbid," he said, "that I should accuse any one wrongfully; but there are circumstances both at Constantineple and Montenegro which are extremely suspicious, it looks very much as if the French government were endeavoring to embroil us all in the Eeast, hop n return."
I remarked upon the assurance which would might think proper to take in Eastern affairs, and that little more than a month ago he had apprised the Sultan that if his assistance was required for resisting the menaces of the French, it was entirely at the service of the Sultan!

In a word, the Enghern went on to observe, "As I before told you, all I want is a good under standing with Enghand, and this not as to what shall, but as to what shall, but as to what shall, but as to what shall not be done; this point arrived at, the English government and I, I and the English government, having entire confidence in one another's views, I care nothing about the rest."

rt phrase meant? "Sir," I said, " Lord John Russell is not speak. ing of your ambilion, he speaks of that enter

His Imperial Majesty spoke of Montenegro, ob-serving that he approved the attitude taken by the Austrian cabinet, and that in these days it could not be permitted that the Turks should ill the Alserias canner, and that the Turks should inteent and even murder a Obristian population.

I ventured to remark, that upon this point the wrongs were at least divided between the Turks and the Montenegrins, and that I had full reason for believing that the provention came from the latter. The Emperor, with more impartiality than I had expected, admitted that there had been wrongs on both sides; that certainly the mountaineers were rather additted to brigandage; and that the taking of Djablak had caused him great indipation. At the same time, His Majesty said, "It is impossible not to feel great interest in a population warmly intached to their religion, who have so long kept their ground against the Turks;" and the Emperor continued, "It may be fair to tell you, that if any altempts at exterminating these people should be made by Omga Pasha, and should a general hising of the Christians take place in consequence, the Sultan will, in all sha, and should a general rising of the Christians take place in consequence, the Sultan will, in all probability, lose his throne; but in this case he falls to rise no more. I wish to support his authority, but, if he loses it, it is gone forerer. The Trukish empire is a thing to be tolerated, not to be reconstructed. In such a case, I protest to you I will not allow a pistol to be fired. In the event of the dissolution, of the Currana campie, he

of the dissolution of the Ortoman empire, he hought it might be less difficult to arrive at a thought it might be less difficult to arrive at a catisfactory territorial arrangement than was commonly believed. "The principalities are," he kaid, "in fact, an independent state under my protection; this might so continue. Servia might receive the same form of government. So again with Bulgaria. There seems to be no reason why this province should not form at independent state. As to Egypt. I quite understand the importance to England of that territory. I can only say, that if in the event of a distribution of the Ottoman succession upon the fall of the empire you should take possession of Egypt, I shall have no objection to offer. I could say the same thing of Caudia; that Island might sail you, and I do not know why it should not become an English possession."

As I did not wish that the Emperor should imagine that an English public servant was caught by this sort of overture, I simply answered that I had always understood that the English views upon Egypt did not go beyond the point of securing a safe and ready communication between British India and the mother country.

The conversation now drawing towards are and, the Emperor expressed his warm attachment to the Queen, our gracious socretign, and his respect for her Majesty's present advisers. The declarations contained in your lordship's dispatch had been; he said, very satisfactory; he could only desire that they should be a little amplified. If there be in the propositions thus repudiated r England proofs of excessive hardihood, there e also instances of forgetfulness which will extensive. The Emperor of Russia remodels the map of Europe without mentioning Prussia, and without taking any account of Austria. It has been seen in what terms that sovereign raplice to the expressions of astonishment which the silence preserved, respecting the latter Power, inspires the English ministry.

As to the government of the Emperor Napulson, there is but one observation to make upon the studied endeavor of Russia to leave it out of the question in her plans of territorial remodification—which is, that Russia came back to the French government, after having failed in London, and that France, in her turn, had to decline advences more or less direct, which are not without resemblance to those which were first made to England. to England.

[From the London Times, March 25]
The Moniteur has lost no time in confirming, by the authority of the French Government, the statement which had been published a few days before by this journal, to the effect that, on the furlier of the severe and confidential promosals adversed by the Emperor Nicholas to the British Ministry, that Sovereign turned his overtures to France, and received from Louis Napoleon a similar region. iar refusal.

This circumstance was all that could be desired This circumstance was in that could be decided to complete the case against the Emperor Nicholas, and to give the finishing stoke to the demonstration of his bad faith. In his most secret communications with the envoys of this country he affected to entertain the greatest mistrust of France—he assured Sir Hamilton Seymour that tan-and he had offered a lew months before to support the Sultan with his forces by sea and by land against the possibility of a French hostile expedition. Yet, when he found that England was not to be corrupted or cajuled, he turned without the least scruple or delay to that very Power which he had just before been treating not only with contempt, but with claudestine hostiling.

Mr. Herbert Reed moved that a State Lengue se formed to carry out the object of the meeting. Before the question was put, Mr. Watkins made a few remarks opposing the motion. He said, that if passed, the people might depend too much upon the committee, without acting themselves as they should do—that it might be said that those arrested would have their fines and their expenses paid, and that they, were acting in the maiter, more for the hope of reward, than from principle; and it might result to the prejudice of their cause

A gentleman in the gallery opposed the idea of an initiation fee to make a man autagonistic to slavery. "If a man, sir, cannot be made, of his own conscience, antagonistic to slavery, without an initiation fee, I say, sir, let him go to (dropping his voice) any place he's a mind to. laughter.) Rev. Mr. Luomis, from Racine, commented on the remarks made by Mr. Watkins, and finished, with a quotation from scripture;-"Woe unto you when all men speak well of you." Mr. Gillmore, of Massachusetts, next spoke, friend on his right (Mr. Watkins), had come out a eight that he had not expected to see in Wis-

Resolved, That we do not only sympathize with the persons an exist for aiding and assisting in the escape of the fugitive slave Glover, but that we do pledge ourselves to aid and assist in a more substantial manner those men that have been singled out of some 4 or 5000 equally guilty persons, to suffer the penalty prescribed by the fugitive slave act, by forming into a league of freemen intespective of all parties, upon the broad and distinct ground, that "eternal vigiliance is the price of liberty."

Mr. Watkins stated that his objection was to an,organization-that he was a democrat-that he did not mean to sacrifice his party, but would not sacrifice his principle. If he separated from the party, it would be in reality the party leaving him. He had been in the democratic party for twenty years - he did nt know that they owed him anything; if they did he was certain they had'nt paid him ; that the opinions he entertain ed now he had imbibed at the age of 16, they had grown with his youth. He would speak to the democratic party the same sentiments that he did here.

Mr. Booth offered a substitute resolution. Mr. Clement said that he sympathized with Mr. Watkins, as he was in the same box with him; but he wanted it to be understood, and that plainly that he had been arrested and held to bail. He expected to be fined, and wanted it to be understood that he meant to pay his own lawyer-to go to Madison on his own expenses; that he had always paid his own bills, and the doctrine would be strange to him to sak any body else to pay them for him. He wanted it also understood that he did not come here begging. After some further remarks, Mr. Clement was followed by the election of the following as officers of

Dr. Wolcort, President; A. H. BIELFIELD Secretary ; C. E. Wundenli, Treasurer ; Gen. PAINE. Vice President. Mr. Clement was then called for to finish his speech of the afternoon, and spoke for nearly half n hour. At the conclusion of his speech the

With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which, he has innumerable certificates. Spenking of the treatment, a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an arreachle, healther water the mediative than the mediative constitutes. a physician remarks:—It is evident that inhaling—con stantly breathing an agreeable, healing vapor, the medici-nal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stumach, and subjected to the process of digestion The Hygeans is for sale at all the druggists throughou the country.—New York Datchman, Jan. 14th.

The best evidence that can be adduced in favor of the effectionsness of Houfland's German Bitters, prepare by Dr. C. M. Jackson is the unprecedented demand for them from all parts of the Union; and although there may be many compounds prepared and represented as being worthy of a liberal patronaga, yet, we feel constrained to remark that the vast number of testimonials with which the worthy doctor has been honored, by persons of the highest character and respectability, who found it pecesar ry to have course to his preparation, if testimony sufficiently conclusive, that a more effectual remedy for the al-most immediate relief of those afflicted with that direful malady, dyspepsia, has never been discovered.

Summary of News by the Europa.

According to advices from St. Petersburg, the Russian government proposes publishing various documents on the Eastern question. Among the documents destined for publication are some letters written by Prince Albert.

Admiral Nupier's fleet in the Baitic consists of 9 screw line of battle ships, 3 sailing do, 8 screw figntes, and 7 paddle steamers, carrying 1345 guns, and 14 015 men; 9 more ships of the line, and 10 ships besides, were to start immediately to join the squadron.

It is thought the French expeditionary army will stop at Gallipoli, and that the English will establish themselves in the Gulf of Enos. After a short time for rep se, the Anglo-French army will be despatched to Adrianople or to the Urimea. LUNDON, March 25, 1854.

march to Shumla in the month of April, in order to make nom for the Anglo-French auxiliaries, who, on their atrival, will assemble somewhere near to Constantinople, and repose for a time from the fatigues of their royage.

None of the nurthary troops will be sent to the Danube, but the reserve division of the French, under the command of General Forez, will, perhaps, be posted in Roumelia, to the south of the Belkan. A strongly entrenched camp is being formed at Fokshan. Marshal St. Arnaud's quartermaster, with eight o her English and French Davis Richard officers, is at Shumla.

Omar Pacha removed his headquarters from Shumla to Rustchuck, on the 19th March.

The Shumla correspondence of the London Times of March 5th, say's:

In the night between the 1st and 2nd inst., the Russians attacked in considerable force the battery placed by Omer l'acha at Potbaschi, in order to check the passage of the Russian ressels on the Danube. Four companies of Turks were inwediately ordered to attack them by Ibrahim Pacha, serving under the orders of Mustapha Pacha, who commands the right wing of the Turkish amy in the Dobrutsche.

The object of the Russians was to spike the cannon and destroy the works; but in this they were hindered by the vivacity of the Turkish attack, so that after half an hour's engagement, they were all obliged to take to their ships in order to avoid being driven into the Danube. In this affair the Turkish loss was 10 killed and 13 wounded. Eighty Russian dead bodies were found in the morning, and as many were drowned. The Russian loss must have exceeded 100.

BELGIAN ARMS FOR RUSSIA.

Letters from Berlin state that the recent prohibition to transport arms and munitions of war across the Prussian territory was rendered necessary to a state professing neutrality by the large orders which the Liege manufacturers have been executing for the Russian government, as many as from 15,000 to 16,000 stand having already been forwarded.

The embarkations of troops have commenced.

According to official accounts, the number of French troops already despatched is 56,000, and of the English between 29,000 and 30,000. The departures are effected with difficulty, owing in the fact that Marshal St. Arnand, who is a bad administrator, having left the Wer Department in a deployable state. The material is either not to the found, or in damaged condition; in addition to this, the Immous third naval squadron exists only in the columns of the Manifeur, being composed it in rof cassels in unserviceable condition, or still on the stocks.
